MEMORIAL SPAN ACROSS POTOMAC

Committee for Celebration of National Unity Suggests Structure Be Built.

PLAN REUNION HERE

Suggestion Made that Blue and Gray
Veterans Join in Parade in Capital.

The committee for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of National Unity, just organized at a meeting held at St. Augustine, Fla., and attended by representatives from Northern cities as well as from the South, has voted to urge upon Congress the building of a Memorial bridge over the Potomac at Washington. The plan is to dedicate the memorial in May, 1915, to make it one of the several celebrations of that year in recognition of the hundredth anniversary of peace among English speaking peoples. Dr. Edwin Anderson Alderman, of the University of Virginia, president of the new committee, announces that it is proposed to have the memorial erected and the exercises conducted under the auspices of the Federal government, but under the immediate direction of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans, acting jointly, and to make the occasion a time of reunion between the two great armies of the sixties.

The committee plans, further, to inaugurate a day for the formal parade when the veterans of the war between the States shall pass in review before the President of the United States and high officials of the government, escorted by regiments of the regular army, battalions of the navy and militia of the States. Additional details will be determined by the committee at an early meeting to be held in Washington, when a bill will be prepared for presentation to Congress calling for the bridge.

Alderman Is President.

The committee, as organized at St. Augustine, elected the following officers: President, Dr. Edwin Anderson Alderman, president of the University of Virginia; honorary president, William Jennings Bryan; secretary, Harry L. Brown, St. Augustine; chairman executive committee, William B. Howland, of New York. Among the members of the committee selected at that time are E. E. Phoebe, of St. Paul; S. C. Baker, Sumner, S. C.; Col. Benson Cameron, Raleigh, N. C.; John Parker and W. O. Hart, New Orleans; George P. Harrison, adjutant general of the Army, of the Tennessee, United Confederate Veterans; Hon. Job E. Hodges, New York; Hon. Elihu A. Herbert, Washington; Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, New York; Hon. Andrew D. White, Ithaca; Col. Peter A. Mayo, Virginia, and Gen. John A. Stewart, New York.

The national committee when completely organized will consist of five members from each State, to be appointed by the Governors, and the executive committee will consist of fifty-one mem-
